
My Need to automate my entire layout

Posted by pramodisha - 2009/11/05 08:33

Dear Friends,

I am a new member and am based in India.

I am a professional model maker as well as a trader in model trains and related items.

I have come across an enquiry to automate an entire layout from a friend-cum-customer who is building a huge outdoor layout in O scale.

I am new to this automaton stuff though I am an electronics engineer by education.:-)

Kindly send me all of your suggestions and comments at your earliest possible convenience to help me in this regard.

There is reasonably a good budget allocated for this project but I need all the information on required hardware and software at the earliest.

Thank you in Advance.

Pramod Agrawal.

Re:My Need to automate my entire layout

Posted by Keimpe - 2010/01/05 21:58

Hallo Pramod Agrawal.

before you know what kind of hardware you need, it's better to make a good layout on paper.

After that it's more easy to see what kind and howmuch hardware modules you need.

When the Catrain software is programmed for it you can make a simulation run on your PC.

If everything is more or less OK you can start to build your real layout.

And then the fun starts to synchronise the whole system.

Good luck,

Keimpe
